Fifth “swine flu” vaccine death in Sweden – vaccinations still go ahead as planned!

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Media in Sweden is having a tough time maintaining the propaganda as more and more people question the reasons for the mass vaccination. Now, authorities say that if not “80% of the population takes the shot, we risk 100 deaths from the swine flu”. Most Swedes know that a normal flu season see several thousand dead from complications from the seasonal flu so the proportions of the propaganda coming from media and the government has caused a growing revolt against the massive attempts to scare people to take the poisonous injection.

We have earlier reported on the first death, the second death (also here), the third death and the fourth death in Sweden from the poisonous Pandemrix vaccin shot.
