A “thank you, God” present (Saint Gregory the Theologian)

ες / Ρήματα ζωής

Give something to God as a “thank you” present, for the fact that you’re one of those who can give charity rather than someone who has to live off it.

For the fact that you don’t expect help from the hands of others, but that others hope for it from yours.

Bestow not only possessions on people, but also respect, not only gold, but also virtue, or even better, only virtue.
