The Church of Christ is Catholic (Elder Ephraim of

The

Church of Christ is Catholic in the sense that it contains the full complement of truth and Grace for the enlightenment and redemption of the world.

It is also Catholic in the sense that its potential strength is not to conquer, but to hallow the world.

The head of the Church is Christ and we are members, linked by common faith in an ‘association of love’. The history of the Church is one of struggle for the sanctification of the faithful.
