Raging within us (Saint John of Kronstadt)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

All

the passions are fires of the soul, conflagrations raging within us. We have to put this fire out with the water of love, which is so strong it can extinguish any internal flames of evil and the other passions. But woe betide us, woe betide our vanity, if we feed this fire with another, with wickedness and rancor.
