You learn the art (Metropolitan Athanasios of Lemessos)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

People have to learn to listen properly if they're going to communicate properly.

It's important that you should build any relationship on humility, which means that you have to emerge from yourself and give yourself to the other person completely. In this way, you learn the art of living properly with other people, without absorbing them or being absorbed yourself.
