19 Απριλίου 2010

Armenian cemeteries annihilated in Turkey

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Armenian cemetery of Aydynodjaq village, in Gevash region, Van, has been turned into a school, and now another Armenian cemetery in Yaylaqonaq village, Van is under threat of annihilation aimed to be turned into a public house.

Construction activities have also started, Haber 1 reported. It’s reported that the Armenian cemetery will be completely destroyed, the graves and stones are broken which made the bones of dead Armenians to appear. (περισσότερα…)