Don't save me either (Saint Symeon the New Theologian)

I knew a man who loved other people so much that he said 'God, I want to save my brethren and to save everybody. If you don't save everybody, I don't want you to save me either. Because I can't see what Paradise would be without everybody else'.