

14 Απριλίου 2018

They expect from others (Saint Nicholas Velimirovich)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

People become uncharitable when they expect charity from others while others are expecting it from them. In this mutual expectation, that is awaiting charity from each other, it's almost a general rule that people become uncharitable and unfeeling. Charity isn't a passive virtue; it's active.