We're abandoned because of it (Abba Dorotheos)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Because people don't look to their own wickedness, because they don't weep over their dead self, they're incapable of doing anything at all to put themselves to rights and so they're constantly concerned with other people. There's nothing that angers God more, nothing that exposes us so much and leads to our isolation than gossip, than condemning and slaughtering other people.
