The essence lies elsewhere (Metropolitan Athanasios of Lemessos)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Humility isn't a matter of whether we're prepared to dwell in a manger or in a stable. The essence lies elsewhere and it's elsewhere that Christ wants us to be like him: by becoming meek and humble in heart. Not in what's apparent, but in the depth of our heart.

Metropolitan Athanasios of Limassol
